Learning Objectives

- Demonstrate the application process, dates and how submissions are reviewed
- Identify the benefits for students and their careers
- Illustrate the breadth of case study content, and how it has helped students gain a competitive advantage in the market

About the Case Competition

- Established 2017 with donation honoring former HIMSS employee Marc Holland
- Provides student opportunities to build interdisciplinary teams
- Goal is to demonstrate proficiency in understanding health information and technology by analyzing a HIMSS-supplied case study
 - Teams have the opportunity to;
 - “design the future”
 - Apply recommendations that support current health information and technology practices that involve transformative care
 - Recommendations must include advocacy outreach at the federal and state levels
- Top two finalists receive a benefits package which includes a HIMSS Global Health Conference experience
